

Abstract

Method for radical emulsion polymerization using hydrosoluble alkoxyamines

The present invention relates to a process for radical emulsion, miniemulsion or microemulsion polymerization employing at least one water-soluble alkoxyamine.

This process makes it possible to prepare multiblock (co)polymers, in particular diblock and triblock (co)polymers.